Forecast for Sunday 13 Sep 2020

Weather: A fair amount of low cloud expected through the day, although some breaks are expected in lee shelter. More in the way of sunshine developing across southern fells later in the afternoon. A lot of dry weather expected but some drizzle possible on western upslopes from time to time.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: 20%, extensive cloud between 500 and 700 metres for much of the day. Some breaks possible in lee shelter, say east of Borrowdale. Cloud likely to clear more generally across the more southern fells from late afternoon, some breaks appearing further north too but probably too late in the day.

Visibility: Rather hazy under cloudy cover in the west, else good.
